PALESTINE SESSION TOLD BRITAIN CAN'T ACT ALONE

TRUMAN AGAIN CALLS FOR CUT IN ALL PRICES

Tells Chamber of Commerce Reduction Is Task of Businessmen.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29—President Truman told the U. S. Chamber of Comerce today "a pressing task of all businessmen is to reduce prices wherever possible at all levels while steadily increasing production."

This reiteration of Mr. Truman's repeated assertion that prices must go down if the nation is to avoid serious inflation and depression came before 2,000 delegates to the Chamber's 35th annual convention.

In a message prepared for delivery by presidential aide John R. Steelman, Mr. Truman said:

"To the United States Chamber of Commerce and to the delegates to its thirty-fifth annual meeting, I extend my most cordial greetings.

"It is heartening to know that this nationwide federation of American businessmen is gathering in the nation's capital not merely to discuss questions relating to the welfare of individual businessmen, but to consider the general welfare of our people as a whole and the ways in which businessmen can further America's continued prosperity and freedom.

Praises Convention Theme

"It is indeed fitting that you have chosen, at his particular moment in our nation's history, the convention theme of 'paths to freedom and plenty.' Our free democratic way of life runs no risk of successful challenge so long as all of us pull together—labor, agriculture, business and finance, and the government.

"No community leaders have a graver responsibility at this moment, or a greater opportunity for service to their country, than our businessmen. A pressing task of all businessmen today is to reduce prices wherever possible at all levels while steadily increasing production.

"By careful planning, by elimination of wasteful methods and practices, by expanding facilities where needed, and by increasing productivity, businessmen can greatly help in dispelling the inflationary cloud now hanging over us.

"The United States has long been known for its success in the mass production of goods at low prices by well-paid workingmen and women who themselves make up the greater portion of the market for the goods they produce. On this firm foundation we must and will move forward to ever freer and ever expanding system of private enterprise."

Sets Stage for Showdown

The renewal of Mr. Truman's campaign to talk businessmen into lower prices set the stage for a quick showdown with the big business and industrial organization.

Its price policy committee votes later today on a resolution of its own, expected to show the President how his plan is going over with a wide cross-section of business interests.

One of Mr. Truman's cabinet officers, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, told the delegates earlier the best present contribution this country can make to world peace is "the maintenance of substantial military power."

Until the United Nations has a chance to reach "maturity," Forrestal said, U. S. armed force is the main hope for the world stability necessary to international commerce, "the greatest and most practical agent of civilization."

Will Find Own Level

Even before hearing Mr. Truman's message, Vice President Earl O. Shreve of the Chamber of Commerce indicated his belief that prices will find their own level through the workings of supply and demand, possibly involving a "recession" in business.

He also hailed the Republican victory in the last congressional election and took issue with the administration stand against tax cuts this year.

Shreve, who is a vice president of the General Electric Company, said in a prepared speech "we need tax cuts to stimulate investment in new enterprise, to encourage management and to ease the heavy burden on consumers.

Walter Lippmann, author and commentator on world affairs, said in a foreign policy discussion that the greatest danger of war between the United States and Russia arises from "dealing with one another through satellites and puppets and weak clients—dealing through agents."

"It is never certain that an agent will follow instructions,"

PLANE WITH 15 ABOARD LOST

Canadian Airliner Missing On Flight Over Rough Terrain.

By The Associated Press

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 29—A Trans-Canada Air Lines plane with 15 persons aboard disappeared today on a flight from Lethbridge, Alta., to Vancouver. There were absolutely no clues as to its whereabouts, although the plane—a C-56 transport—checked in by radio only three minutes before it was scheduled to land here last night at 11:16 p. m. (PST).

At that time, the Northwestern Air Command said, the plane reported it was on the west leg of the Vancouver radio range and was preparing to come in from 7,000 feet altitude for a landing. The plane has not been heard from since. There were no Americans aboard.

The radio report indicated the plane probably was over Vancouver island, due west of this mainland city, but a search by two Royal Canadian Air Force planes which covered the entire island where it was thought the craft

A fire reported in the vicinity where t was thought the craft might be down, a 30 mile strip along the east coast of the island in the area of Duncan, Chemainus and Nanaimo, provided to be only a blaze from burned brush, the air command reported.

The transport, piloted by a Captain Pike of Toronto, left Leghbridge at 9:27 p. m. on the flight of approximately 475 miles over some of the roughest terrain in North America.

HUNT FOR OHIO PAIR CENTERS IN MICHIGAN

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., April 29—The hunt for a Toledo ex-convict and his wife, both accused of beating a four-year-old boy to death, centered today in northern Michigan.

Missing since last Friday morning—the day James Gleason, 4, was found dead in his crib—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lehaney have been charged with first degree murder by Detective Capt. Ralph Murphy.

"The couple," the murder affidavit read, "did purposely deliberately and with premeditated malice beat and kill James Lester Gleason, 4."

Harold Lehaney, who is 41, served 14 months in the Mansfield reformatory in 1926-27 on an auto theft charge and has since faced charges of larcency and embezzlement, Murphy declared.

For a number of months, the detective said, Lehaney and his wife, Flo Vis Lehaney, also 41, have been living with the dead boy's mother, Mrs. Virginia Gleason, 26. Since Friday, however, the couple had not been seen in Toledo.

Murphy said the last report he had was from Michigan police, saying the Lehaney car had been spotted last Saturday near Sturgis, Mich., heading north.

In filing the charge, the detective gave no indication as to a motive for the killing.

Young James Gleason died less than seven weeks after his two-year-old brother, Gerald died, and Coroner Poul Hohly said he was "not satisfied" with the original report of the younger boy's death.

At that time, Gerald was said to have died from a streptococcus infection. Hohly, however, declared the infection had resulted from a head wound.

U. S. Rejects "Compromise Of Exhaustion" Proposed by Stalin In Kremlin Talk with Marshall

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29—The United States served notice on Russia today that this country will drive ahead with steps to help speed Europe's recovery without awaiting the big-power "compromise of exhaustion" foreseen by Premier Stalin.

Secretary of State Marshall disclosed the Soviet leader's suggestion and the American reply in a plain spoken report to the nation last night on the dissension-torn Moscow foreign ministers conference.

Stalin told him at their secret Kremlin meeting two weeks ago, Marshall said, that the Big Four powers might be able to compromise all their major differences "after they had exhausted themselves in dispute."

In his delayed report, the cabinet officer put the blame squarely on Russia for the failure of the foreign ministers to agree on a peace treaty for Austria and the rough outlines of one for Germany, and declared:

"The patient is sinking while the doctors deliberate."

Believes Action Imperative

"I believe that action cannot await compromise through exhaustion," Marshall went on. "Whatever action is possible to meet these pressing problems must be taken without delay."

One major action which already is being taken is the economic unification of the British and American occupation zones of Germany designed to make them self-supporting. Marshall said the invitation for Russia and France to join in the arrangement continues in force.

Another major American step—the $400,000,000 program of financial and military aid for Greece and Turkey—Marshall mentioned only indirectly. The reference then was in praising Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich), of the senate foreign relations committee and Senator Connally (D-Tex), for their bi-partisan leadership in the senate debate on "a foreign policy of momentous importance to the American people."

Marshall said guardedly that at Moscow, "possibly greater progress toward final settlement was made than is realized."

Differences in Light

"Critical differences were for the first time brought into the light and now stand clearly defined so that future negotiations can start with a knowledge of exactly what the issues are and must be settled."

But he cautioned that the differences between Russia and the western powers are "matters of vast importance to the lives of the people of Europe and to the future course of world history," and added:

"We must not compromise on great principles in order to achieve agreement for agreement's sake."

The state department arranged to beam a Russian-language translation of Marshall's full address to the Soviet Union on the regular "Voice of America" program today.

Marshall said that at their Kremlin meeting Stalin counseled patience, observing that the seven-week foreign ministers conference represented only the first skirmishes on a German settlement.

Compromises Possible

Stalin, he said, thought that compromises are possible eventually on "all the main questions, including demilitarization, political structure of Germany, reparations and economic unity."

"I sincerely hope that the generalissimo is correct in the view he expressed and that it implies a greater spirit of cooperation by the Soviet delegation in future conferences," Marshall continued.

Putting aside diplomatic niceties in his criticism of Russia's course, the secretary noted that the Soviet Union has operated its occupation zone in Germany "practically without regard to the other zones."

And he charged that Russian refusal to carry out the Potsdam Big Three agreement for an economically unified Germany was the sole cause of the American-British zone merger.

Summarizing the foreign ministers conference, Marshall said bluntly:

"Agreement was made impossible at Moscow because, in our view, the Soviet Union insisted upon proposals which would have established in Germany a centralized government, adapted to the seizure of absolute control of a country which would be doomed economically through inadequate area and excessive population, and would be mortgaged to turn over a large part of its production as reparations, principally to the Soviet Union.

"In another form the same mortgage upon Austria was claimed by the Soviet delegation. * * *

"At Moscow propaganda appeals to passion and prejudice appeared to take the place of appeals to reason and understanding. Charges were made by the Soviet delegation and interpretation given the Potsdam and other agreements which varied completely from the facts as factually known by the American delegation."

Sears Roebuck To Occupy Former A. and P. Room.

Start of construction of a new farm store to be operated by Sears Roebuck and Co. at 181 South Main street, in the building formerly occupied by the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., was announced today by R. D. Graney, manager of the company's Marion store.

Sears Roebuck and Co. will occupy the entire first floor of the building, converting it into one of the most modern farm stores in central Ohio, Mr. Graney said.

Work began yesterday under the direction of Charles Lukotch, construction engineer from Pittsburgh, Pa. Local contractors on the project are L. A. Amrine and Sons. The first floor of the building has been leased from the owner, John Geiger of Chatfield, Ohio.

The building will give Sears Roebuck and Co. approximately 12,000 square feet of floor space. The interior will be entirely redecorated with new display equipment, Mr. Graney said, and the store will carry all lines of the David Bradley implements and equipment. A complete saddlery shop and poultry and dairy supplies also will be included.

Mr. Graney said contruction work would continue for several weeks but the company hopes to be ready to occupy the new store by the last of May. The company has been granted CPA approval of $18,000 for the project.

When the building is completed, all farm equipment now in the store at 231 West Center street will be moved to the new location.

PHONE STRIKE HEADS HAIL $2.50 OFFER

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29—Leaders of the telephone strike today hailed a $2.50 weekly pay boost offer by the Northwestern Bell Company as a break in resistance to their wage demands in the 23-way old nationwide tieup.

Officials of three other key Bell units gave no evidence that they planned a general wage offer as they returned to government-sponsored negotiations here today.

But George S. Dring, assistant vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, said he has the power to make one to the long lines workers "if I decide it is the fair and reasonable thing to do."

The union has been contending that Dring came into the sessions without this power.

Joseph Beirne, president of the NFTW, said the offer was the "break" which had been rumored over the weekend.

The three key sessions in Washington continued between union and company representatives of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's long lines division, Western Electric Company and Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Two Men Hold Up Marysville Loan Co.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, April 29—Two men held up the Citizens Federal Savings and Loan Co. here today at 12:15 p. m. and escaped with a sum reported at between $4,000 and $5,000.

They escaped in a blue sedan with a Tennessee license plate. Law enforcement officials throughout this area were alerted. They were believed to have headed west out of town toward Bellefontaine.

One of the men was described as about 40, wearing a gray suit and hat. The other was said to be between 28 and 30, wearing a blue suit and brown hat and carrying a brown brief case.

The men were about five and one-half feet tall and were both armed, one with a pistol and the other with a revolver.

In the loan company office at the time were Everett Lorenz, assistant secretary, and Miss Diana Nerr, a clerk, and one customer.

Herded Into Rear Room

Lorenz said the men entered and asked for Reed Nerr, general manager. When told he was not there, they flashed their guns and herded the two employes and the customer into a rear room. They then went through the cash drawers.

As soon as they had left, Lorenz ran into an apartment adjoining the rear room and called police by telephone.

The state highway patrol threw 25 patrol cars into road blocks in the area in an effort to catch the holdup men.

The customer was later identified as Mrs. Geraldine Peoples. She entered the office as the gunman had the two employes lined against the wall. They then forced all three to go into the back room.

The robbers closed the door to the room, and Lorenz tapped on a window and attracted Mrs. Harry Hanby, who lives in a nearby apartment. She summoned the officers.

The building and loan was held up about 18 years ago and lost $2,500.

Marion patrol sub-station sent two cars out, one north of Marysville and another east of Kenton.

The state patrol said Marysville was surrounded by cars and patrolmen.

Cars and men were sent from subposts at Springfield, Bellefontaine, Delaware, Marysville, Marion and from the state headquarters at Columbus.

The patrol block system went into effect 15 minutes after the robbers left the bank at 12:15 p. m., patrol officers reported.

"Both men were short," one patrol official said. "I would be surprised if we haven't them within the ring."

There had been no sign of the men at any of the blocks at 1:35 p. m.

68 MAKE CLAIMS AGAINST BUCYRIAN

Declare Sherk Owes Them at Least $259,656.

BUCYRUS, April 29—Sixty-eight persons declared in a petition filed in bankruptcy court in Canton, O., yesterday that Edward Sherk, a Bucyrus cattle dealer, owed them at least $259,656.09, The Associated Press reported today.

They requested Paul D. Roach, federal referee in bankruptcy, to stop a "preference payment" of $62,000 to J. E. Faulkner. The petitioners elected Charles W. Sickafoose as trustee for Sherk's property. Roach said no date had been set for further hearing.

Charges against Sherk came before the Hardin county grand jury recently, but his case was continued pending further investigation. He was arrested in February after four creditors maintained he failed to make payments on livestock and merchandise loans and they named him defendant in an involuntary bankruptcy petition filed in a federal court in Cleveland.

Several of the cars were overturned and their contents spilled along the siding.

Woman Who Put Finger on Dillinger, Dies in Romania

By The Associated Press

BUCHAREST, April 29—Ana Cumpanas, "The Woman in Red" who put the finger on John Dillinger that summer night in 1934 when FBI men killed America's public enemy No. 1 in a Chicago alley, is dead.

The Timisoara newspaper Vestul reported last night that the woman, known in the United States as Mrs. Anna Sage, died last Friday in the quiet town of Timisoara in southwestern Romania of a liver ailment. She was 58 years old.

Mrs. Cumpanas was deported by the United States government in 1936 because of a conviction in Gary, Ind., for running a bawdy house. She had lived the life of a well-to-do citizen in Timisoara since then.

Vestul said that she complained to the end of her life that she had been "cheated" by federal authorities of $70,000 in reward money for putting Dillinger on the spot for the G-men.

She told New York reporters when she was put aboard the vessel to be deported that she had received $5,000 for informing on Dillinger, and in reply to a question as to whether she felt she had been "double-crossed by the government in the deportation proceedings," she replied:

"I have never felt that way."

Melvin H. Purvis, former FBI chief in Chicago acknowledged her aid in bringing Dillinger's criminal career to an end at deportation proceedings in 1935, when he testified that he had promised to help her in having the deportation order dismissed if she participated in Dillinger's capture.

Born in a small Romanian village, she went to the United States in 1914, settling in Chicago, where she married Alexander Suciu. She divorced Suciu in the early 1930's.

On the night of July 22, 1934, she pointed out Dillinger as he emerged from a motion picture theater. Dillinger elected to fight it out with G-men who called on him to surrender, and he was shot to death. Mrs. Cumpanas' soubriquet of "The Woman in Red" came because of the costume she wore that night.

UN HEARS HELP TO BE SOUGHT

English Delegate Says Empire Won't Spend Blood; Treasure Unaided.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 29—Britain declared today that she could not be expected to "expend blood and treasure single-handed" to carry out recommendations of the United Nations on the future of Palestine.

This was the reply Sir Alexander Cadogan gave when India challenged him to give assurances that Britain would abide by recommendations of the Palestine session of the United Nations assembly.

The exchange took place shortly after the assembly's steering committee met to decide whether the extraordinary session should be broadened to include consideration of Arab demands for immediate Palestine independence.

Egypt Demands Action

Egypt then plunged into the controversy and demanded that the committee act on the Arab demands either before or along with Britain's proposal for creation of a fact-find committee to report back on the Palestine question at the September meeting of the assembly.

Assembly President Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil ruled, however, that the British proposal should be taken up first.

Indian Delegate Asaf Ali, taking the floor as the 14-nation steering committee began debating the assembly's agenda, challenged British Delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan to clarify Britain's position before any action was taken.

The Indian demand was backed by Andrei A. Gromyko of Russia and Mahmoud Hassan Pasha of Egypt despite a ruling by assembly President Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil holding that the issue should should not be brought up in the committee but in the assembly itself.

Reads Hall Statement

Cadogan read a statement by Lord Hall in the house of lords last week which said: "I shouldn't imagine Britain carrying out a policy which they thought wrong." Cadogan said he would amplify the British position in the next day or two in the assembly.

Ali said, however, "that the question asked has not been answered satisfactorily." He added: "It appears, if Lord Hall's statement is taken as Cadogan says, it does not mean that Britain will not accept the United Nations decision, but there seems a distinction. It would be a sheer waste of time to consider the British proposal if they are not going to abide by the UN decision. We should know the British answer before we place the item on the agenda."

The British proposal was that the assembly create a special fact-finding committee to report to the regular September meeting of the assembly on the Palestine question.

Finally Gives Reply

Cadogan finally gave this reply: "Any recommendation or decision taken by the assembly may have to be enforced. We can't see how we should be expected to carry out a decision single-handed, how we would be expected to expend blood and treasure single-handed."

Hassan Pasha then demanded that the committee take up immediately the Arab proposal for consideration of Palestine independence.

"I believe that the Arab proposal is more concrete than the British proposal," he said. "I ask for consideration of our proposal at the same time, if not before."

Isaly Union Rejects Compromise Proposal

Members of the Isaly Dairy Unit of Local 750, UAW (CIO), rejected a compromise proposal made by the Isaly Dairy Co. last night over union contract issues and authorized its executive committee to call off further negotiations unless new company offers were made, according to Edward Duck, international representative of the UAW.

Mr. Duck said the company terms rejected unanimously last night by the union offered retroactivity to April 28. The union seeks retroactive pay increases to Feb. 11.

Deadline for the 30-day strike vote ends May 1, and Mr. Duck said that unless further company offers were made, the 26 union members at the Isaly plant would strike on that date. He said the union planned to throw pickets around the plant at 262 North Prospect street and close down operations there.

DEADLOCK AT MOSCOW

Moscow Conference Created Unofficial Western Alliance

This is the second of a series on the highlights and difficulties of the just concluded Big Four foreign ministers conference at Moscow, by members of The Associated Press team who viewed the proceedings at first hand.

* * *

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW, April 29—A combination of Soviet diplomacy and firm United States stands on principles during the council of foreign ministers has created what the Kremlin has criticized most—an unofficial western bloc.

The growing unanimity of the United States, France and Great Britain on one side, with Russia on the other, has been perhaps the most outstanding development of the conference which will not go down in history for its concrete accomplishments.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault came to Moscow with every aim of keeping France in the middle of the road between the east and the west and made a herculean effort to do so.

Step by step he was forced into a coalition with the United States and Great Britain to protect the principles which France has followed for centuries as a fundamental to her security.

Offers Repeated Compromise

Bidault offered compromise after compromise in the hope of bridging the gap between the east and the west but invariably they were rejected, almost always by Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

France fears the over-populated Germany which must be highly industrialized in order to live. After much soul searching and anxious debate in secret conferences, France offered to take as immigrants the people who might in 30 years invade her. France's aim was to achieve European stability by balancing populations and reducing Germany's war potential. Part of this French proposal provided for halting forced migrations of Germans into Germany from surrounding states.

This proposal which was supported immediately by the United States and Great Britan, was rejected by the Soviet Union.

The Soviet stand was that the migration of Germans into Germany must continue and that the country was not over-populated.

Want Industry Reduced

The key to French security has been a policy of reduction in Germany's industrial potential, particularly in heavy industries. Bidault's delegation expected the British to demand a higher level of industry than France desired and were prepared to meet it part way.

But when Russia proposed to let Germany produce 2,000,000 tons of German steel production yearly above the British proposal, the French delegation was surprised and shocked.

The secondary key to France's policy is a decentralized and federalized Germany, and she was supported in varying degrees by the United States and Great Britain. Even on this France was willing to compromise her long stand against establishing central agencies and a limited provisional government.

But Molotov, in the most bitter terms, denounced the federalization plan as an effort "to dismember" Germany. He called for a central government with strong powers.

Once again France found herself on the American-British side.

Brings Up Saar Issue

Then Bidault brought up the economic union of the Saar with France. Again British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Secretary of State Marshall gave immediate agreement with minor reservations. But three times Bidault asked Molotov to state the Soviet views on the Saar and three times Molotov declined to answer. This finally brought a bitter retort from Bidault that France would not "solicit" this answer again.

Virtually every major issue found the United States France and Great Britain in general accord, with the Russians opposing.

On the more positive side, the French delegation has been impressed by the firmness of Marshall's stand on general principles.

Before this meeting, many of the French were uneasy lest the United States sacrifice her position in order to reach an agreement and, in particular, if it would lighten her burden in Europe.

In Europe To Stay

Marshall's willingness to discuss and compromise, but not at the expense of fundamentals, has encouraged the French that their ideas would have firm backing from the United States, which planned to stay in Europe.

Behind the scenes of the conference, American and British diplomacy removed one of the main stumbling blocks of an accord among the three western nations by negotiating a coal agreement with France to insure her of substantial quantities of German coal.

This agreement, announced formally toward the end of the conference forged another American-French-British bond.

Whether Russia agrees to France's Saar claim or not, it is expected that the American-British consent will maintain France's de facto control of this vital industrial region on the French border.

There are some strictly unofficial reports that the next step, now that the Saar is linked in all practical purposes to French economy, will be that the French are willing to merge the rest of their zone with the American-British bizonal group.

Whether this comes to pass or not, the Moscow conference developments have tied French diplomacy and national aims more tightly with the western nations than at any time since the end of the war.

PENNSY INCOME DOWN

PHILADELPHIA, April 29—The Pennsylvania railroad, which reported a loss last year for the first time in its 100-year history, announces that in the first quarter of 1947 its net railway operating income decreased $3,461,902 from the comparable 1946 period. The 1947 total was $1,317,456. In the first quarter, PRR said in a statement, passenger revenue declined $19,081,812 to $38,722,113 while freight revenues increased $30,519,904 to $155,362,287.

TOMORROW IS "CIRCUS DAY"—When the Sparks three-ring railroad circus will be here for one day only, giving two performances, afternoon and night, on the Drake show grounds.

At daybreak tomorrow morning the Sparks circus will arrive here from Mansfield via the Erie railroad and will unload the show wagons, herd of elephants, cages of wild animals and other paraphernalia, at the Greenwood street crossing.

Arriving at the circus grounds, the "big top" menagerie and horse tents will be erected, and after a hasty breakfast the showfolk will prepare for the two scheduled performances, a matinee show starting at 3 p. m. and the night performance announced at 8.

Doors to the menagerie will open one hour earlier so that circus patrons can inspect the open dens of wild animals, elephants, trained horses, and listen to the circus tunes played by the Sparks circus concert band directed by Henry Kyes, circus maestro.

This year's Sparks circus is presented in three rings and elevated stages with a gala introductory opening spectacle "Americana" as the initial presentation. Citizens Can Know Only Small Portion of Capitol Hill Story

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, April 29—You, a citizen interested in what goes on in Washington, can know a little of the whole story. There's just too much story for anyone to absorb it all thoroughly. The same goes for most of the congressmen or anyone else here. Where the best informed people can get is a listen tight-hold on a few things and try to fill in the background by hitting the high spots. That's the case with the labor bills as an example. For weeks the house and senate labor committees, separately, have had a total of about 250 witnesses here to talk for or against them. The senators and representatives questioned them in general.

James Marlow

The testimony and questioning filled out 6,300 pages in 10 volumes.

Draw Up Labor Bills

From the testimony, these labor committee had to draw up bills for the full house senate to vote upon. But only 13 of the 96 senators and only 25 of the 435 representatives were on the senate and house labor committees.

So of all the people in congress the committee members were most familiar with the background and details of the labor bills.

They came to talk for or against debate before voting. But largely they'd have to depend upon the committee members for guidance.

Few members of congress, outside the labor committee members, would have had the time to read through 10 volumes of testimony.

They wouldn't have the time for a very good reason.

Most of the house and senate members not on the labor committees were busy on other committees which were hearing other witnesses on other bills.

So when they in turn draw up bills, after lengthy testimony, the rest of the house and senate will depend upon them for guidance.

May Know Score

All, when it comes time to vote, may know in a general way what they're doing, and why.

But those few committee members which handled a certain bill will always know it best.

And you, the reader, can't know all the details either. Your newspaper can keep you informed on the main developments.

But there's neither time nor room to give you every detail on every hearing on every bill, or on other things.

Just as the majority of congressmen must depend upon their committee members, you must depend upon trained newsmen to fill you in on the high spots.

Often, because of its outstanding importance, you will get a story in complete detail.

But on the day by day stuff, because room has to be made for other stories, you get the main points without great detail.

CHOOSE SITE FOR NEW GALION CHURCH

Special to The Star

GALION, April 29 — A site at the northeast corner of Cherry street and the South State road was chosen Sunday morning by the congregation of First Evangelical United Brethren church as a place to build the new edifice.

The site was voted on by ballot during the regular morning worship hour at 10:30 at the East school building. Many who could not be present for the service sent signed absentee ballots.

The church and parsonage were destroyed by a $85,000 fire last Dec. 1. The old site will now be for sale, board members said today.

A 30-day verbal option on the new site at Cherry street and South State road will expire today if the lots are purchased by the board they have two houses on them, one to be reconditioned for a parsonage. Architects Martin and Ward of Columbus are now working on plans for an $90 000 edifice.

The vote Sunday morning was conducted by Lester Bishop, chairman of the board of tellers.

Under the program, 33 miles will be redragged and 11.74 miles of stone road will be given new drag treatments. The treatment consists of applying a layer of blacktop to the road surface.

It includes new drag treatment for the Lauer road and the Fox road in Prospect township, and the Somerlot-Huffman road in Pleasant township and redrag work on a street in Meeker in Montgomery township.

The county engineer's office estimates the entire program will require 28,473 gallons of prime tar, 224,131 gallons of mixing tar and 79,898 gallons of asphalt. Also used will be 9,585 tons of No 46 stone and 3,191 tons of No. 6 stone.

Supreme Court Rules OPA Can Bar Evictions

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29—The supreme court ruled yesterday that OPA can bar carrying through of eviction judgments three Texas landlords won against tenants during the June 30-July 25 period last year when there was no price control law.

The 8-1 decision reversed a U. S district court ruling at Dallas that the present price control law is unconstitutional insofar as it does not permit landlords to take advantage of eviction judgments won at that time of no federal law.

Bromfield Flays U.S. Wealth Destruction

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 29 — The United States, says author-farmer Louis Bromfield of Mansfield, O., has history's worst record "for the exploitation and destruction of its natural wealth."

He told the annual convention of the Ohio Valley Improvement association here yesterday.

"Within the space of a century or two—the fraction of a second in historical time—we have cut off our forests, used up recklessly our mineral wealth and destroyed as rapidly as possible through poor farming and erosion the very foundation not only of our economy but of our very life — the good agricultural land.

However he added he saw hope for improvement "in the fact that more and more individuals and organization are taking intelligent steps toward bringing about a change in conditions."

Marion Couple Give Vows In Church Ceremony

MISS GERTRUDE MARJORY DIETSCH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Dietsch of 207 South Grand avenue, became the bride of Arthur A. Galloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Galloway of 306 South State street, in a double ring ceremony read Saturday in the First Church of the Nazarene. The couple repeated their vows at 7.30 o'clock in the evening before the altar decorated with a large bouquet of snapdragons and lighted white tapers in two seven branch candelabra. Open church was observed and Rev. W. E. Zimmerman, pastor, officiated.

A program of nuptial music was presented preceding the ceremony with Miss Mildred Ellington at the piano. Her selections included "Whisper That You Love Me" by Engalmann, "Because of You," Hammerstein and Wilkinson, "Indian Love Call," Friml, "Always," Berlin, and the traditional wedding marches. Miss Betty Weiser sang "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," Herbert and "I Love You Truly," Bond. During the ceremony, Mrs. Robert Forsyth played "Have Thine Own Way, Lord," on the chimes.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, was attired in a two piece wool dress of winter white fashioned with a fitted bodice and cap sleeves. She wore a white calot with a shoulder length veil of pink net and her only jewelry was a gold pin set with pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a white Bible topped with a purple throated orchid and showered with white streamers.

Mrs. William F. Laucher, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a two piece light pink dress with black and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Raymond George served as best man and ushers were Robert Forsyth and Eugene Galloway.

The bridegroom's mother chose for the wedding a gray pin stripe suit with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception for the bridal party and immediate families was held at the home of the bride's parents. The table which held the tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom was decorated in pink and white, the bride's chosen colors. At either end of the table were lighted tapers. When the couple left on a short wedding trip, Mrs. Galloway was wearing a gray checked suit with kelly green accessories and her bridal corsage. Upon their return, they will make their home at 207 South Grand avenue.

The bride's gift to her attendant was a stand of pearls, and the bridegroom gave his best man and ushers gold tie clasps.

Mrs. Galloway is a graduate of Harding High school and is employed with Campbell-Rose and Co. Mr. Galloway, also a graduate of Harding High school, served three years in the U. S. College Gospel Team at Youth For Christ Service

A gospel team from Wheaton college, Wheaton, Ill., presented music and a message at the Youth for Christ meeting held at the Masonic temple Saturday night. Played for the benefit of the audience was a recording of a shortwave radio broadcast made from station HCJB, Quito, Ecuador, by Dr. C. E. Hershey, director of Marion Youth for Christ, and Rev. Marvin Lewis, until recently assistant director. The broadcast was made last week while the two men were in South America on a missionary tour for Youth for Christ International.

Clifford Ward, chaplain of the Youth for Christ committee of Marion businessmen, had charge of the meeting in the absence of Dr. Hershey. Jack MacDonald of the Gospel team, song leader and trumpet player, led in several choruses, then played a trumpet selection. Don Crider, another member of the team, sang a number entitled 'Down in the Depths of the Sea," and MacDonald gave a reading, "The Old Violin." The two sang "There's no Friend Like Jesus." Glenn Franke, pianist of the team, accompanied. The broadcast recording was played by Mrs. Hershey.

Following a period of testimonies participated in by the audience, MacDonald played a trumpet solo, "His Eye Is on the Sparrow," and Crider spoke on "Not Beyond Redemption." He related an incident of a juvenile murder case, telling of a statement by the judge when the accused was brought before the court for sentence to the effect that the boy "is not beyond redemption, and can be placed in an institution where he can be taught to become a useful citizen." The speaker went ahead to say that "no one is beyond redemption as far as God is concerned. Christ can save 'from the gutter to the uttermost.' No sin is beyond forgiving and no sinner beyond forgiveness. Christ is ever ready and willing to receive those who come unto Him."

Dr. Hershey will return to Marion in time for his services next Sunday at Emmanuel Baptist church, where he is pastor. Rev. Lewis, who has moved his headquarters temporarily to Tampa, Fla., will go on to work in Jamaica. The next Youth for Christ meeting will be held Saturday, May 31, it was announced.

Boyle Marks Thousandth Night in Hotel Bed

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 29 —Tonight—I figure—is the thousanth night I have slept in a hotel room.

It is a memorable occasion to me. But hotel owners of America have ignored its significance completely. No beaming management waits outside in the corridor to surprise me with a cheery basket of fresh plucked rosebuds or a gleaming cake with a thousand candles.

Hal Boyle

No. I am celebrating this historic milestone all alone. The maid even forgot to dust off the Gideon bible.

I am putting myself to sleep not by counting sheep—I detest mutton even with its clothes on—but by thinking back on all the hotel rooms I have known. The first thousands beds are the hardest, I hope.

51 Countries, 17 States

I have slept in hotels in 51 countries and 17 American states. In about 27 cases a room was obtained merely by going up to the desk and registering. I forget just when this strategy last worked.

I feel now though that with the possible exception of the Martha Washington hotel in Manhattan—which caters exclusively to the girdle trade—I could somehow get into any hotel in the world. And without paying a bribe or putting on a white beard and pretending to be former Chief Justice Evans Hughes.

Hotels are full of rooms. The desk clerks don't really want to keep you out. They just want to be sure you appreciate how lucky and grateful you are if you get to spend a night in their gentle custody.

The best run hotels are in Switzerland. But they give you an uneasy sense of feeling unwelcome. The worst hotels are in Balkans whose beds held more kinds of smally game than the neighboring countryside. With a flashlight and flit gun you can spend a wonderful night hunting —and scratching.

4 Servants in India

In Chinese hotels the peddlers wake you up before dawn to try to sell you an ivory trinket, a pair of seedy silk pajamas or a jade-encrusted blackjack. In India you can have two servants—one to put on your right shoe, one the left. A third servant draws your tub. A fourth cleans it.

In Bali they do your laundry in a half day. In France, they have a man on each floor who does nothing but think up reasons why "m'sieu" can't get his things back in less than a week.

The nicest thing about hotel rooms in savage countries is they don't have pictures on the walls. Hotel pictures in all western lands are haunting artistic horrors. One solution is to turn them to the wall and draw your own pictures on the back. This is hard to do nowadays because most of the pictures are already inscribed on the back: "Kilroy was here."

Chambermaids in all countries have one vice in common. No matter where you hide your slippers they always find them and pole them with a broomhandle as far under the bed as they will go. It is their way of getting even with the world.

Only once do I remember ever failing to find my slippers out of reach beneath the bed. But the chambermaid hadn't played traitor to her sisters. I simply had forgotten to bring any slippers along.

DANGER SEEN IN U.S. SUPPORT OF SCHOOLS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29 — Amos A. Fries, director of the Friends of the Public Schools of America, said today government financial support of schools would lead to "a federal bureaucracy or a private heirarchy of education."

His organization "believes absolutely that the public schools should be locally controlled and locally financed as a fixed principle," Fries said in a statement prepared for a senate labor-public welfare subcommittee.

Fries opposed legislation which would provide grants to the states for school purposes.

He said the nation's schools have "failed in a large way" to meet essential needs, and said one reason is that the National Education association and other organizations have wasted much time and energy lobbying for federal aid.

"Let us not mollycoddle parents and children with the sop of an education without effort," he said. "Education without effort simply creates a horde of 'gimmeites,' those who look to the government for everything whether they do anything to deserve it or not."

U.S. INTRODUCES MAY LETTER IN TRIAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29—The government introduced at Andrew J. May's war fraud trial yesterday a letter the former house military committee chairman purportedly wrote in 1943 saying he was "the only one scheduled to lose" from Kentucky timber operations financed by the Garsson munitions makers.

LeRoy W. Fields Sr., identified the letter as one May wrote him. Fields said he was May's partner in the Cumberland Lumber Co. in Kentucky.

The government entered the letter in support of its charges that May was set up in business by the Garsson munitions combine as payment for favors May allegedly obtained for the Garsson firms from the war department. It says there is evidence the firms paid some $50,000 to Cumberland, but got no lumber.

May contends he only operated the lumber firm for the Garssons and had no part in the ownership.

The Garsson brothers, Henry and Murray, are codefendants with May in the present trial. So is Joseph F. Freeman, their wartime Washington agent.

"Interior" Economy

OVER LOUD protests, the house has passed an interior department appropriation bill totaling $161,413,513, or 45 per cent less than what was requested by President Truman.

This will involve major curtailment of many department activities, notably construction work. Congressman Robert F. Jones of Ohio justified the reduction of construction funds by saying, "...public works expenditures are inflationary when the government bids in the market for critically short materials and runs the price up on them to increase the cost of living across the board for the comman man." He added that the overall reduction was not nearly so drastic as it appeared because the department has substantial frozen funds from previous years.

Another major cut was in the bureau of Indian affairs. The house voted to delegate to the states more responsibility for Indian education and also substantially reduced bureau administrative expenses.

The reduction was more drastic than for other departments, but the appropriations committee maintains no worthwhile project was injured. It was a bold bit of surgery, administered without anesthesia.

The New C. of C. Secretary

THE board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce has made a commendable choice in naming Hugh E. Webster secretary of the organization. He has given excellent service as assistant secretary and on this record was entitled to the appointment.

There is every reason for members of the Chamber and for the city as a whole to feel assured that the work of this important community post will be done efficiently and conscientiously by Mr. Webster. Not only has he proved his ability and capacity for initiative in his service as assistant secretary, but he also has a record of achievement in previous positions of responsibility, which stamps him as well fitted for the Chamber's head executive post.

With these personal qualifications and with assurance that he will receive the utmost cooperation of other Chamber of Commerce officers and of the entire membership, Mr. Webster has prospects of giving valuable aid to the organization in its work for Marion's development and progress.

Newburyport Sales

THIS YEAR the vogue is for "Newburyport sales" instead of clearance sales, but the total effect probably will be about the same. For the long pull, moral crusades will not crack the law of supply and demand; they might scuff it around the edges a little, but that's all.

The price situation is fraught with uncertainties. Supply is overtaking demand in some lines; in others it is not. Prices and profits are not uniformly high. It is hard to see how Newburyport sales will rectify such inequalities.

On the other hand, the Newburyport idea will make customers even more aware of the price situation, will keep them on the alert for bargains and will put retailers on the qui vive, making them buy more warily from wholesalers.

Whatever price roll-backs there are, they may be expected to start with the customer and work back to the manufacturer. The Newburyport idea (this is the best advertising the city has received since Bossy Gillis was mayor) may be a catalyst in speeding up that process.

The Degeneration of Dueling

AUTHORITIES on the code duello were confounded recently when a Parisian actress challenged a newspaper critic to a duel for published remarks she took unkindly. Sacre bleu! Name of a name! A woman challenging a man to a duel! Such a situation had never before arisen, not even in the 17th century when duelling was common and the customary salutation was "Who fought yesterday?" The challenged writer appointed seconds to meet with the actress and get things settled without bloodshed.

In this country, there have been few duels since the days of Aaron Burr, but with the increasing number of sensitive figures in public life, the day may be near when the impromptu night club passage at arms gives way to the throwing down of the gauntlet and the formal challenge. Given his choice of weapons, the challenged person will, if alert, choose tapioca pudding at 15 paces.

No More "Off Limits"

A LOGICAL development based on the Doolittle committee's findings is the army's decision to plat new military cemeteries without special sections for officers.

By the very nature of the armed services, some separation is necessary between officers and enlisted men in their everyday life—how much is an unsettled point. But the idea should not be carried to the grave. Certainly it doesn't extend beyond the grave; there's no pearly gate marked "Enlisted Men Only" or a heavenly street labeled "Officers' Country."

News Behind the News

Marshall Strategy at Moscow Wins Approval.

WASHINGTON, April 29—Several Republican senators (not including Vandenberg) said privately General Marshall was the first American diplomat with enough courage to come home without an agreement.

This seemed to be the general sub-rosa reaction. Since Roosevelt, all American dealers with the Russians thought they had to come home with something in order to be popular. Such appeasing concessions grew smaller and smaller as realization grew that our dealers were actually gaining only time for themselves by giving away advantages.

These Republicans also think the Russians will come around to some genuine peace steps as soon as they realize their absurd game has been discovered, and is no longer useful to them.

Truman Views Same

As Mr. Truman (he was on the long distance telephone constantly with Marshall through each step of the conference) seems to believe just about the same thing as the Republicans on this matter, Marshall has achieved solid popularity where it will do the most good.

The only criticism I heard involved minor displeasure over the press reports, at the breakup of the Moscow conference, indicating Marshall intended to make his radio address to the people. Congressmen thought he should come there to make his speech to the pear later to inform their committees.

Marshall's achievements at Moscow were truly great, although their importance may not be appreciated. Russia prevented acceptance of the German treaty, and surprisingly also of the Austrian pact, but this was expected, indeed known to be inevitable from Russia's actions. As everyone knows from the facts that Marshall could not do the impossible, they should properly evaluate what he did do, namely:

Solidarity Gets Results

1—The important votes in the conference disclosed Great Britain and France to be staunchly with the United States policies. A solidarity grew naturally out of the Russian policy to prevent agreement on anything the Soviet could not win. I do not mean they worked or voted together. Perhaps an incident will illustrate better the point: Bidault protested and blocked the Soviet final move to keep 200,000 troops occupying seized areas, allowing only 100,000 each to the United States and Britain and 50,000 to France. Russia was trying to get an equal number of troops with the two major nations, and only 50,000 fewer than the three nations combined; in short, wanted practically equal antagonistic representation with the other three combined. She has been getting away with agreements like this heretofore because she thought she had a strong anti-government threat over French negotiations (her French Communists) and could use built-up opposition to the United States in the British Labor party. Russia did not get away with it this time.

Excesses Damaging

2—Russia made a record of more selfish opposition than anyone in the world thought possible before that conference began. She would not even agree to points on which she had indicated a prospect of agreement. Example: She wanted the Austrian pact to give her reparations of materials which Germany had seized from Austria. Russia wanted not only what Austria had but what Germany took away from her. This, and similar proposals by the Soviets just about reached the apex of unreasonableness very foolishly at a time when her appensers and Typhoid Marys were trying again to promote appeasement (Wallace, et al.). By their excesses they have probably killed off their best hope of creating confusion and frustration.

By the time the next Big Four meeting rolls around in November in London, they may have come to the realization such tactics are not successful, and may develop some symptoms of genuine, non-political sincerity for a stable peace.

The Marshall strategy is thus almost unanimously evaluated among leaders here whom I have contacted, as the most substantial contribution thus far to the prospect of genuine understanding.

What Do They Mean "Free As The Air?"

The National Broadcasting company recently has silenced several top-flight comedians for poking fun at the network.

Maybe we should stop worrying about the USSR's iron curtain and do something about NBC's.

Otherwise, soon the only gags on radio will be the network's.

The bill of rights guarantees freedom of speech to the man in the street . . . . but not in Allen's Alley.

For radio is a medium on which you can kid congress, the President and both governors of Georgia . . . . anything, in fact, except radio.

Ridicule is radio's meat, but when it comes to ribs about itself, NBC is strictly vegetarian.

Of course, you can understand the network's position in the matter. It doesn't need any radio comedian to make it look ridiculous.

Still, it had better go easy on that silence stuff . . . . The listeners might develop a taste for it. Republican branch of government and broadcast from the house, although they knew he would appear.

Schools Costly To Poor States

By WALTER LIPPMANN

MANY would agree with what was said in the preceding article about federal aid to the schools—as in the bill sponsored by Senator Taft—: That the principle is well established, that the nation can readily afford to spend more on education, and that the need is very great. Yet some will be reluctant to act, feeling that a bill of this kind is a measure to tax the people of states that do well for the benefit of states that do badly.

They will, however, be astonished to find, if they look into the matter, that the people of the poorer states with the poorest schools actually devote a larger part of their income, to educate their children, than do the people of the richer and more favored states. The people of the poorer states can accept federal money for their school without loss of self-respect.

The reason for this is obvious, once you think about it, but the obvious often escapes us. The poorer states have, of course, less income per taxpayer. But they have more children per taxpayer than the richer states. They have to educate more children out of smaller resources.

If we are talking of justice and self-reliance, then the comparisons are in their favor. A poor family with five children cannot give each child as good opportunity as a rich family with one child. But that does not mean that the poorer family has not tried to do as well by its children as the richer one. Now on the whole the states with the worst schools spend a bigger proportion of their incomes on schools.

Measure of Effort

The fair measure of a state's ability to pay for education is the size of its income per child of school age. The 11 states with the smallest income per school-age child in 1939 were, in the order of their poverty—Mississippi, Arkansas, Alabama, South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, Kentucky, New Mexico, Tennessee, Louisana, West Virginia. But none of these states would be found on a list of the 11 which devote the smallest part of their income to schools.

Mississippi, for example, is at the bottom of the list in what it spends on schools. But it is near the top of the list, actually ninth, for the whole country in the percentage of its income which is devoted to education. It spends 3.41% of its income. New York spends 2.61% of its income. But because Mississippi is so poor but has relatively so many children, it has an average of $400 to spend on a classroom unit whereas New York has $4,100 to spend per classroom unit.

In other words, the states with the poorest schools are not those which make the least effort. Many of them make the greatest effort, New Mexico, for example, though it is among the 11 which spend the least, leads all the other states in the proportion of its income which it spends.

Effort About Average

I do not, however, mean to give the impression that the effort of the poorer states is consistently greater than that of the richer ones. But it is true that most of them make an effort which is near the average for the nation as a whole.

There is, therefore, no moral basis for objecting to federal aid. The Taft bill would tax individuals wherever they live, and would distribute the proceeds to states which, though they spend 2.5 per cent of their income on schools, do not have enough money to provide $40 per pupil per year.

I have labored this moral issue because I assume that there is no need to persuade any American that schools are vitally important, or that the nation as a whole suffers if the children of any part of it are illiterate, or grossly uneducated, or miseducated.

No doubt the mere expenditure of money will not give this country the education it needs to govern itself and to prosper. That calls for a lot more than money. But more money is needed urgently, even desperately, to provide the simplest kind of ordinary literacy throughout the nation. On that, whatever our theories of education, we can all agree, and there is no point in being complicated and subtle about it.

Alas, No Slogans

By STEWART ALSOP

CAIRO, April 29—In the dark days of the Communist-led revolt which threatened to engulf Greece in the winter of 1945-'46, Winston Churchill stumped ashore in Athens, brandishing his cigar. On every possible occasion, while the attempt was being made to reach a negotiated settlement with the Communists, Churchill throatily reiterated the phrase which he had aparently adopted as the hallmark of his Greek policy. "The Greek constitution," he would proclaim, "must be preserved."

Some days after Churchill's arrival, while the battle for Athens still raged, an official with many years' experience in Greece found himself closeted with Churchill in the upper story of a deserted embassy. The day was bitterly cold, and there was of course no heating in the house. For a time the two men talked standing up in the unfurnished room. When a bullet splashed through the window and lodged itself in the ceiling, Churchill made what seemed to the official a most sensible suggestion. The only furnishing in the room was a rug, and Churchill proposed that they both get under it, to continue their conversation in great warmth and greater safety.

Unusual Conference

The official was only too happy to oblige, and when he found himself happily ensconced under the carpet with the great man, who was still serenely smoking his cigar, he screwed up his courage to make a point which he had not till then cared to introduce. He could understand, he said, the prime minister's feelings about constitutions in general. But it might be worth pointing out that in Greece the constitution was regularly and radically revised every other year or so, and totally disregarded in the interval. Thus the prime minister's repealed assertions that the Greek constitution must be preserved had a tendency to puzzle, irritate or amuse the Greeks, rather than to impress them.

Having said so much, the official waited with bated breath, fearing that he had gone too far. For some moments Churchill sat silent under the rug, puffing his cigar. Then he spoke. "If that's the way things are," he said, "they damn well ought not to be."

This tale bears a moral for a United States which is already far more deeply involved than most Americans realize in the extraordinarily complex political situation in the Near and Middle East. For just as many American GIs during the recent war condemned French civilization wholesale because they found the plumbing inadequate, so Americans are inclined to judge foreign politics and foreign social systems in terms of their own. Americans havea special love for the slogan, the pat phrase which will comfortably explain foreign policy in terms of a sentence or two. The sad truth is that there is no fine fat phrase on which American policy in the Middle East can be based. Except possibly in Greece, the United States is plainly not defending democracy, simply because democracy does not exist.

Election by Phone

In Iraq, for example, what are known as "telephone elections" are held. The lists of desirable candidates are drawn up by the ruling group and then telephoned to appropriate henchmen in outlying districts. Occasionally the telephone breaks down, or somebody gets a name wrong, and the wrong man is elected, but that is about the only margin for error in the Iraq electoral system. In Egypt the ultra-nationalist Waafdists are universally acknowledged to be the strongest party in the country, but the Waafdists hold no seats in Parliament. In Iran, while this reporter was present, elections were in progress. It was a common saying that for the first time in Iranian history all the seats were being sold over the same counter—that of the aged, wily prime minister, Ahmed Qavam. The Middle East's occasional incorruptible politician, like Iran's Abol Hassan Ebtehaj or Egypt's Nokrashy Pasha, is so exceptional that he is always identified in tones of hushed awe.

In Turkey a common wisecrack in the cafes (a wisecrack only made after making sure that the agent of the secret police who haunts every cafe is out of earshot) is to call president and ex-dictator Ismet Inonu "Inonu The Eighteenth." The story goes that when Turkey's first general elections in history were ordered, 18 candidates filed from Inonu's district in Ankara. When the votes were counted, Inonu was found to have placed eighteenth, immediately after his personal barber. Naturally in the published vote Inonu's name led all the rest. This story may be a canard, but certainly there is no knowledgeable observer in Turkey who does not agree that a good deal of hankey pankey went on in the counting of the votes.

It is also true that there is now more freedom in Turkey than ever before, and a more reasonable facsimile of democracy than has ever previously existed. Yet the enemies in these parts of the new American policy toward Greece and Turkey singled out the passage in Truman's speech implying that America was defending Turkish democracy for more sardonic comment than any other.

The uninspiring fact is that American policy in this area is based squarely and solely on the vital American self-interest in the face of Soviet expansionist ambitions.

Mr. Twitchell at the Kremlin Banquet

The Honorable Elmer Twitchell attended the Kremlin banquet which wound up the Big Four Conference. His condition today was reasonably good. Elmer was never much of a vodka man and at his best merely a "Five Toast" barqueteer. With the consent of the attending physicians, he gave a play by play report of the dinner.

"It was a grand success," he declared. "Russia lifted the iron curtain and showed us the Soviet system of uncorking wine. She held back nothing. I wish to state there is absolutely no danger of any conflict between Russia and the United States if we both keep drinking.

"Everything went off fine, once the boys shifted the agendas to food. We were all pretty nervous as we filed into the dining hall, since no friendliness had appeared anywhere up to this moment. But from the moment the waiters appeared with the celery, and no veto power was exercised, we felt better. We took our seats apprehensively, but one look at the menu put us at ease. It was not printed in double talk.

"Secretary Marshall asked for a hard roll forgetting the fact he had been getting a hard roll throughout his visit.

It was passed to him without a single reference to the Yalta Pact. Molotov passed the butter, but kept a tight hold on the silver dish. Stalin arose and proposed a toast to President Truman's bowling alley.

"Ernie Bevin accepted a Russian cigaret. One puff convinced him the East and West were farther apart than ever. Vishinsky offered him a cigar under the Teheran Agreement.

Stalin proposed a toast to President Truman's pinboy. Molotov made a few remarks clearing up his long range policy on sturgeon eggs. There was a disturbance in the kitchen followed by heavy shooting. Isvestia explained that a Greek waiter has been discovered there.

"Stalin proposed a toast to President Truman's bowling ball grip. He asked if the President used the big balls or the little ones. Mr. Marshall explained that the President was by ideology a big bowling ball man but respected the right of any man to use the smaller models.

"There has been considerable infiltration by Bortsch and at this point Russia revealed its concepts of caviar. Roast suckling pig followed. I now felt considerably like a puppet state. Stalin proposed a toast to all the bowling alleys in America.

"We had now reached the turkey and red cabbage with no trouble at any point. Molotov was in a deadlock over the right fork but quite passive.

"Secretary Marshall asked please pass the white fish. Vishinsky did it after a hasty reference to the Cairo Pact. At this state it was obvious that the waiters held the balance of power. I was pretty dizzy now as Stalin proposed another toast, this time to Allen's Alley. He was getting a little confused. So was I.

"I arose to answer but slipped on a dozen empty bottles and that's all I remember.

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: Things have changed since the last time I wrote you about communism. Truman says the federal government is going to weed out government-employed reds, if it can find them. That's a fine idea, but it isn't going to solve the problem. What we need to do is find out why the commies can survive in this country and get rid of the fundamental infection, then the rest will take care of itself.

The way things are now, if a fellow doesn't like what's going on he is likely to become a commie because no one else seems to want him. The commies call themselves liberals, on the theory of catching flies with sugar. But communists are not liberals, as the liberals in Russia who haven't been killed yet now know to their sorrow. Communists are revolutionists, which is another breed of cats.

What this country needs is a real liberal movement where people itching to do something about injustices can find companionship without falling into the hands of revolutionists. Commie outfits are catching our malcontents on the rebound and playing them for suckers. When they turn sour, the commies are ready to step them up.

The commie strategists are cute. They work on all the things that can't be fixed quick, because that's where they find the most discontent. They take advantage of the Negro question because we've never been smart enough to find an answer for it. They concentrate on labor unions, because they know that lots of people who work for wages get so fed up with the monotony of it that they crave excitement. They work on high school and college kids because at that age people are bright-eyed and earnest about anything labeled liberal.

They get away with it because people will figure it's time for a change haven't any other place to go. They need some movement they can join that's for the benefit of the United States, not for the benefit of international revolution, and the setting up of a lot of new dictators. In other times, Americans who were fed up turned to Populism, the Bull Moose movement, the New Deal, even to Wendell Willkie. Then also came the commies and set up a catch-all under the auspices of a foreign government. They were smart, all right, but, I think we are smarter.

The way to spoil the commie's game is to furnish a genuine liberal opposition movement with all its roots in this country. Meanwhile we must do everything we can to prove that this country doesn't need a revolution. I may write a letter to the editor of the county paper about this. When even I can be called a commie, because I think the powers that be are a bunch of fatheads, it's time to get busy and do away with the notion commies have a monopoly on dissent among us Yankees.

Solons Wring $18,000,000 in "Water" from Budget Bill.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 29—The house finance committee put the $533,000,000 biennial budget bill through the wringer again today after squeezing out some $18,000,000 in two Monday "wash day" meetings.

Striving to reduce the two-year state budget to around the half billion-dollar mark, the committee got about $9,000,000 in "water" out of the bill in each of yesterday's afternoon and evening sessions.

Recommendations covering public schools and state universities as well as other departments were yet to be heard from.

Welfare department cuts totaled $8,151,650, including $3,661,200 from the old age pension division. The highway department was slashed $7,846,300 of which $2,500,000 was for wages and $3,850,000 for motor equipment.

Other slashes included $1,200,000 for township highways, expected to reappear in the additions and betterments bill, and $323,979 from the health department.

Vet Groups Cut Off

Eliminated completely for 1948 were appropriations of $217,040 for various veterans' organizations which for years have received state subsidies. As a compensating gesture, the amount for soldiers' claims work was increased by $44,100.

Other increases included $75,000 more for the control of Bangs disease, $26,000 to the parole division, $30,400 to the industrial relations department, $81,120 to the department of public works.

The senate in a brief session last night passed and sent to the house measures to set a six-year statute of limitations on liens against delinquent personal property taxes, make it illegal to give purchasing agents anything of value to influence their work without knowledge of their employers, and to increase from $500 to $1,000 the amount of road machinery townships can buy without competitive bidding.

Attorney Fees Jumped

The house completed passage of a bill to provide for a juvenile judge on the Ohio judicial council and sent to the senate a measure to increase allowances for attorneys defending indigents accused of manslaughter from $250 to $350 and for other felony cases from $50 to $100. Another house-passed bill would increase the Newark municipal judge's salary from $3,600 to $4,800 annually.

Introduced in the senate was a proposal by Sen. Raymond E. Hildebrand (R-Lucas) for creation of a three-member board empowered to mediate grievances of civil service employes.

Sen. C. I. Powell (R-Clark) presented to the senate a petition signed by about 180 Springfield and Clark county employes urging passage of the McKie bill allowin war veterans to return to the BUC employes' retirement system even if they withdrew money upon entering service.

Sen. Fred L. Adams (R-Wood) was renamed head of the Ohio post-war program commission's aviation committee for two years. He announced the committee would again sponsor the Ohio aviation clinic at Bowling Green State university, probably late in June.

Woman, 100, Given Sycamore Reception

Special to The Star

SYCAMORE—Nearly 225 attended the open house reception held Saturday afternoon at the Methodist church for Mrs. Margaret Walton, who on Friday celebrated her one hundredth birthday.

The church was decorated with a profusion of flowers. Among the arrangement was a large basket presented by the H. & G. grocery and restaurant and their employes and 100 American Beauty roses given by her by her son Arthur Walton and wife of Akron.

Mrs. Walton was seated in a rocking chair where she received and talked to each of her guests. Her dress was of black silk and her matching accessories included a becoming hat. She also wore a beautiful brooch, a gift from her grandson in New York.

The lace covered table was centered with a mixed bouquet of spring flowers placed between lighted tapers. Pouring were Mrs. Herbert Leadenham, Mrs. U. Z. Wickham and Mrs. S. M. Firestone. Mrs. Russel Miller and daughter Ruth served ice cream and the huge birthday cake was cut by three of Mrs Walton's nieces, Mrs. Ray Walton, Mrs. George Sigler and Mrs. Frank Dellinger.

Serving on the reception committee were members of her Sunday school class, Mrs. Edna Caughey, Mrs. David Stalter, Mrs. Mary Curlis and Mrs. Lizetta Konkle. Mrs. Jennie Miller was the committee on registration and Mrs. Frank Teal was the general chairman.

Fraternal and patriotic organizations, as well as two Mothers' clubs, assisted in the reception.

WALLACE HINTS HE'LL BOLT PARTY IN '48

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29 — Henry A. Wallace kept the door open today for a possible bolt from the Democratic party in 1948 unless it changes to fit his defintion of "liberal."

Explaining his attacks on administration foreign policy during a tour of England and France as "a fundamental divergence of opinion" with President Truman, Wallace declared:

1. "It's too early to say" whether he will support for re-election the man who tossed him out of the cabinet.

2. "I still hope the Democratic party will become the liberal party, if not, there will have to be some steps taken—no doubt about that."

3. "The only question of my running for office would be to benefit peace in the world."

Wallace declared Mr. Truman's proposal to spend $400,000,000 for economic and military aid to bolster Greece and Turkey against Communism gives the United Nations "the run around."

"I didn't go to Europe to criticize U. S. foreign policy," he said. "I went to strengthen the hand of those people who want peace."

Akron Settles Strike Of Transport Union

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., April 29—Public transportation returned to normal here early today after 142 striking bus mechanics ended a 24-hour walkout which forced many of Akron's 245,000 residents to walk or hitchhike.

Leaders of the local AFL-International Association of Machinists union agreed last night to accept a seven-cent hourly wage increase and "concessions on other contract fringe issues" from the Akron Transportation Co., union President W. H. Demoss reported.

At 4 a. m. yesterday the workers rejected a company-offered seven cent raise and struck to enforce demands for a 16-cent hourly boost. Fringe issues in the dispute were not named by DeMoss, who said the mechanics' new wage rate would be $1.27 an hour.

The union also voted to give its negotiating committee full power to work out a final settlement of the dispute with company officials.

Ohio Senate Marches Bonus Into Pay Position

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 29—The senate marched its war veterans' bonus payment program into position for passage today.

The proposal calls for a $300,000,000 bonus payment to an estimated 781,000 Ohio veterans with the rank of captain or below at the rate of $10 for each month of domestic service and $15 for foreign duty between Dec. 7, 1941, and Sept. 2, 1945, to a maximum of $400 each. Heirs of service dead would receive $400.

Only veterans residing in Ohio for a year prior to entering service would be eligible and 90 days of service would be required unless discharge in less time resulted from service injury.

Approval by the legislature still would leave final determination of bonus payments up to voters at the next election in the form of an amendment to the state constitution.

TAFT OPPOSED ON LABOR BILL

Vandenberg Takes Issue with Moves by Ohioan To Stiffen Measure.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29—Senator Taft (R-Ohio), bumped into opposition by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), today in his drive to broaden pending labor legislation to let private employers seek injunctions against jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts.

Vandenberg declined comment, but colleagues said he had raised objections within the Republican policy committee to the amendment—one of four Taft is offering—on the grounds that it would be regarded as a move to scuttle the Norris-LaGuardia act.

When this act, barring federal court injunctions in labor disputes, was passed on March 1, 1932, the Michigan senator was one of the 75 who voted for it. Others now in the senate who supported the measure include Senators Barkley (D-Ky), Connally (D-Tex), George (D-Ga), Hayden (D-Ariz), and White (R-Me.)

Vandenberg's opposition to the proposal lined him up against Taft, as well as George, who joined Senators Ball (R-Minn), Byrd (D-W. Va), and Donnell (R-Mo), in offering the amendment to the labor committee bill the senate has been debating since last week.

Friends insisted that Vandenberg's split with Taft over the proposal at a closed meeting of the policy committee could not be described as a "row."

The Ohio senator said there may be a revision permitting the filing of such injunction action only by district attorneys. Taft added, however, that he is facing demands for a "tough" amendment, as well as for a less drastic provision.

"Some of the senators from farm states think that farmers ought to have the right to go into court to stop some of these secondary boycotts that have been operating against them," he told a reporter.

As presently drawn, the amendment would operate against practices in which one union refuses to handle the products of another union. This is termed a secondary boycott. Jurisdictional strikes involve a dispute between unions as to which will do certain work.

Although Taft publicly predicted senate adoption of this and three other pending amendments, there were some indications that he would be willing to sacrifice the injunction proposal to get approval of the other three.

These would (1) prohibit unions from interfering with workers' rights to self-organization; (2) restrict the practice of industry-wide bargaining and (3) prohibit union-controlled welfare funds.

GI Who Reenlisted By "Mistake" Freed

Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood, who issued the writ, ruled that Kenst's reenlistment was void.

See Medicine Going Into Social Fields In New Techniques

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

CHICAGO, April 29 — Medicine in the near future is going to change its teachings and include economics and sociology so that doctors can the better keep people from getting sick.

This prediction was made to the American College of Surgeons today by Dr. Wilson G. Smillie, professor of public health and preventive medicine, Cornell university medical college, New York City.

He explained that the causes of death are rapidly changing. And he declared that medicine, pills and drugs are now substituting for tuberculosis, pneumonia and the great infections which for thousands of years were man's worst enemies.

The new diseases, he said, are degenerative, those of aging, like hearts and arteries; and also the chronic diseases, which do not kill, but which for no apparent good reason keep millions of people constantly ailing. This latter class of disease he said affects mostly men and women in their thirties and forties. He said the amount of chronic disease is astonishing.

The doctor of the future he said will consider his patient's home life, his job and his attitude toward life. He will be as much concerned with well people as the sick. For the degenerative diseases there is at present no adequate remedy. There is not likely to be, Dr. Smillie argued, until doctors begin preventive measures that involve man's social and economic condition as a probable starting place for bad hearts and the like.

Farm Union Accepts Harvester Firm Terms

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 29—The largest of the 11 unions in International Harvester Co. plants has accepted the offer of a wage increase equivalent to 15 cents an hour.

A federal conciliator said last night the CIO United Farm equipment Workers union had agreed to the new terms for its more than 30,000 members in 10 cities.

The new terms, offered by the company yesterday morning to 62,000 employes in 21 plants, follow the pattern adopted thus far in new contracts by automobile, steel and other industry workers. They provide for a basic 11½-cent hourly increase plus pay for six holidays a year which equal an additional 3½ cents an hour.

And Stop Dosing Your Stomach With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get real relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation.

In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And when the lower part gets blocked food may fail to digest properly.

What you want for real relief is something to "unblock" your lower intestinal tract. Something to clean it out effectively—help Nature get back on her feet.

Get Carter's Pills right now. Take as directed. They gently and effectively "unblock" your digestive tract. This permits all 5 of Nature's own digestive juices to mix better with your food. You get genuine relief from indigestion so you can feel really good again.

Buy Carter's Pills today. "Unblock" your intestinal tract for real relief from indigestion.

Says Truman Fears Surplus

Taft Says Administration Is Afraid To Revise Budget Estimates.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29—Senator Taft (R-Ohio), contended today that Secretary of the Treasury Snyder is refusing to revise federal income estimates for next year "for fear they may show a surplus which would justify a tax cut by a Republican congress."

Taft predicted in a statement that taxes can be cut nearly $4,000,000,000 a year simultaneously with a $4,000,000,000 payment on the national debt — provided congress holds spending $4,000,000,000 or $5,000,000,000 below President Truman's estimate of $37,500,000,000 for next year.

He said the treasury estimates for the current fiscal year, made last January, have proved nearly $4,000,000,000 wrong and that the estimates for fiscal 1948, submitted at the same time, "are evidently also wrong."

Taft asserted that Mr. Truman has opposed "every reduction in government expenditures" and every tax cut, although in Taft's opinion those two devices "will do more to relieve inequality and maintain prosperity than anything else that can be done."

"President Truman's recent remarks on prices and wages all seem directed toward preventing a tax cut by the Republican congress although such a tax cut is essential," the Republican policy committee chairman said in his statement issued late yesterday.

Taft contended that a tax cut would increase the purchasing power of 46,000,000 taxpayers, while the benefits of wage increases are likely to go to "only a few million workers with exceptional economic power."

"Price decreases are to be preferred to wage increases, but general tax reduction is the best method of all," he said.

TRUMAN

Lippmann said in his prepared address, "that he will not through stupidity or some sinister reason act on his own, and force your hand, and then leave you in a position where you have to back him up."

The president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, C. Gordon Cockshutt of Brantford, Ont., declared that unless the North American continent is prepared to accept goods manufactured elsewhere and is prepared to lead in breakdown restraints in the trading world, the prosperity of the world is jeopardized.

He said Canadian businessmen believe that peace will depend largely upon economic security in the world and feel that the world must trade on a freer basis.

Price of Live Snakes Dropped 12½ Cents a Pound.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 29—A new price cut was announced today, but it wasn't likely to benefit many households.

Director Robert Bean of the Brookfield zoo said the price of live snakes had dropped from 30 to 17½ cents a pound because of a price war between two reptile dealers competing for the zoo's business.

ASSETS ADMINISTRATION ACCUSED OF STALLING

Senator Says Sale of Two Billion in Machinery Being Held Up.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29—Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), declared today the war assets administration is holding up the sale of nearly $2,000,000,000 worth of machine tools.

The senate war surplus committee which he heads called war officials in today, to explain why they halted one sale at the Curtis Wright plant in Cincinnati last month.

Ferguson told a reporter that the agency, with about $1,250,000,000 worth of machine tools on hand, advertised the sale of about 6,000 of them worth $40,000,000 on March 28.

"People stood in line from 4 o'clock the evening before the sale," he said. "When the sale opened and the first three men in line had placed their orders, a telephone call came from Washington calling it off.

That was a month ago yesterday, he said, and the administration still has not permitted the sale to resume.

"We have been trying to find out why," he said. "The government has no use for these tools, and people are willing to stand in line all night to buy them. The people below, the people who could sell them, can't find out why the sale was stopped, and I think the American people would like to know."

BILL TO BLOCK DAM OFFERED

Dillon Project Held No Longer Justified Because of Increased Cost.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29 — Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) introduced in the house yesterday a bill to block construction work on the Dillon dam in Ohio.

McGregor declared the project no longer justified in the light of increased costs since its authorization in the rivers and harbors act of 1938. His bill would repeal that section of the act authorizing the dam to be built on the Licking river about five miles above its confluence with the Muskingum.

The representative also said he had noted considerable opposition by some local interests.

In Huntington, W. Va., Col. John R. Sharp of the U. S. Engineers' office said the cost of the project was re-estimated in 1946 at approximately $12,000,000. This estimate included actual construction of the dam, relocation of Baltimore & Ohio railroad tracks, and the cost of the land needed to allow for the proposed reservoir.

Col. Sharp said the $12,000,000 still represented a "pretty close" estimate of the cost.

Plans for the coming fiscal year (July 1, 1947, to June 30, 1948), he said, provided only for relocation of 19 miles of Baltimore and Ohio railroad track. About 35 per cent of the relocation already has been completed.

Col. Sharp said that opponents of the project contended hardship on 700 families that would be moved did not warrant construction of the dam. The engineer declared, however, that the number of families to be moved would be 300 rather than 700 and that under present plans they would not be moved until 1949. No more than seven families have been affected by relocation of the railroad tracks.

Council also handled a number of routine matters:

Notes in anticipation of bonds to pay for the Fahey and York street sewers, which are now being completed, were authorized. Cost of the former project was listed as $1,794.78 and the latter as $1,116.

Authorization was given to renew for six months deposit of $600,000 in funds derived from sale of airport and sewer bonds. The funds are deposited in the National City Bank at one-half of one per cent interest.

A petition to change the rear part of property at 177 Chicago avenue from a residential to a commercial zone was referred to the planning commission. H. A. and Florence Miller, petitioners, plan to erect a cement block building there to house a sheet metal shop.

A petition for vacating an alley between Vine and Baker streets north of East Church street was referred to the street and alley committee.

Approved by the planning commission and referred to the city solicitor for legislation at the next meeting were the following petitions, curb and gutters on Thompson street from Silver to Evans streets, on Henry street from Darius to Congress, and on Henry from Darius to Buckeye.

Approved by the sanitary and sewer committees of council and referred to the city solicitor for appropriate legislation was a petition for a sanitary and storm water sewer in Marshall street from Milburn avenue to the east terminus.

Dr. J. G. McNamara addressed council, asking that a space be reserved in the city parking lot for use of physicians. He said he is usually unable to find a parking space near his office at 161 South Main street. The matter was considered by council several months ago and a tie vote resulted. Council President William G. Slack said the matter would be reconsidered.

Councilman D. R. Biggert submitted a letter to council in which he made recommendations concerning changes in operations of traffic lights. The letter was referred to the street and alley committee.

GABLE LOSES ROLE OF TOP PAY ACTOR

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, April 29 — Clark Gable has lost his standing as highest paid actor of Loew's Inc., it is disclosed in the film company's 1946 report to the securities and exchange commission.

Gable, who told an interviewer in March that it was a "lucky year" when he cleared more than $1,000 for himself, adding that he hadn't saved that much in five years, drew the company's top salary in 1945.

Loew's top salary went to Louis B. Mayer, managing director of production, who received $500,000 before taxes the report disclosed. Mayor's salary was $638,992 less than the amount he was paid in 1943.

Actor Robert Montgomery was paid $286,000 and President-Director Nicholas M. Schenck got $224,767, the report said.

Bonuses and profit shares reported by Loew's included $111,357 to J. Robert Rubin, vice president and director, and $63,357 to Benjamin Trau vice president.

All salary figures released by the SEC yesterday are gross earnings, which do not take into consideration deductions for taxes.

The commission disclosed also that Walter S. Gifford, president and director of American Telephone and Telegraph Co., now involved in the nationwide telephone strike, was paid $209,650 by the corporation last year.

H. F. Sinclair, president and director of the Sinclair Oil Corp., New York, received $155,750 the SEC reported.

Shovel Co. Adopts New Bonus Plan

A new bonus plan went into effect at Marion Power Shovel Co. this month. Its workings are explained in the current issue of "The Marion Scoop," employes' monthly publication.

The bonus each month is based on value of shipments made from the plant during the previous month. The total monthly bonus figure is obtained by multiplying the value of monthly shipments by .0275.

The resultant figure is divided by the net monthly payroll. The dividend represents the percentage of his monthly pay each man receives as a bonus.

The plan applies to hourly workers, with some exceptions. Agreed upon by the company and union last month it replaces a less broad bonus plan in effect at the plant during 1945 and 1946.

CUBS TAKE LIMA 6 TO 2; AT LINCOLN PARK TONIGHT

Rosan's Effortless 4-Hit Ball Cools Lima 2nd Straight Time

Special to The Star

LIMA, April 29—Marion's impressive Cubs chalked up their second straight win, 6-2, over the Lima Terriers here Monday night behind the effortless four-hit hurling of Bill Rosan.

The Cubs will make their first appearance before home fans tonight at 8 at Lincoln park in Marion. Lima will again furnish the opposition.

Rosan whiffed 11 Terriers, had letter-perfect control, walked none and gave up only four hits, two of them infield scratches.

Lima Grabs Lead

Lima grabbed a 2-0 lead in the second frame through some dizzy fielding by the Cubs. Catcher Jack Maisch bounced a single off Meyer's glove at third. Joe Breslin fanned. Jerry Kowalski was hit by a pitch and then Mel Arns nubbed a roller back to the box. Rosan threw wildly into center field in an attempt to start a twin killing. Maisch scored with Kowalski taking second. When Beavens threw poorly to third to hold Kowalski at second, the latter moved to third and Arns to second. Kowalski broke for the plate and on Meyers' low throw home scored with Arns taking third. Nichols and Strahs both whiffed to end the spree.

Marion tied it in the sixth when Scavo singled to center after Bobzean fanned. Manager Nelson Burbrink bounced a double play ball to Strahs who threw too quick to second, pulling Nichols off the bag for an error with both runners safe. Forbes singled to right plating Scavo and when Arns let the ball get by, Burbrink tallied with Forbes taking second.

Burbrink Gets Hit

In the eighth Burbrink got a hit when his roller to short hit a pebble and bounded into left field after Scavo had flied out. Forbes hoisted to Arns who leaned against the right field wall for the catch. Burbrink took second on a wild pitch. Gray dropped a double just inside the right field line out of Arns' reach, scoring Burbrink to put Marion ahead 3-2. Meyers then slapped a double to left-center scoring Gray.

Marion sewed it up in the ninth after Beavens fanned and Wiebel popped to short. Bobzean singled to left-center, Scavo grounded to Huddleston, who threw wildly to first, Bobzean taking third and Scavo second. Burbrink singled to right-center, scoring both runners but was out attempting to take second.

From the fourth to ninth inning Rosan held Lima hitless, allowing only one runner to reach base, that on an error by Meyers in the fourth. He retired 13 men in a row before Slater singled to center to open the ninth.

Right hander Mike Trovich will hurl for Lima tonight.

Burbrink earlier this week said Jim Regula probably will start for Marion.

By The Associated Press

Heavy hitting featured the first night games of the Ohio State baseball league season Monday as Zanesville, Dayton, Marion and Richmond pounded out victories.

Rained out for Sunday's opener, the Zanesville Dodgers inaugurated the season on their home grounds with a 7 to 4 victory over the Newark Browns. The Zanesville team exploded for five runs in the eighth against Carl Yerkes who had pitched three-hit ball until then.

The Springfield Giants, winners of the loop title last year, lost a three-hour long game to Dayton at Springfield, 13 to 8. Dayton cracked two Springfield pitchers for six hits good for seven runs in the third inning.

The Richmond Roses won 9 to 8 from Muncie, Ind., at Richmond, Ind.

BABE RUTH CATCHES COLD AT CEREMONIES

Exposure, Excitement Overwhelm Ailing Home Run King.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 29 — Babe Ruth is suffering from a slight cold, believed to have been induced by exposure and the excitement of his appearance at Yankee Stadium Sunday when 58,339 fans honored him.

Mrs. Ruth said that the former home run king's participation in the ceremonies had proved very tiring and that he "was completely overwhelmed" by the festivities. She said he spent Monday morning in bed and had a slight temperature.

The telephone jangled so incessantly yesterday with inquiries about the Babe's health that members of his family were forced to leave calls unanswered.

"They would kill him with kindness," complained a close friend of the Babe. "Ruth himself telephoned me in the afternoon to assure me that his fever was going down and that he was up and about."

Ruth's condition made necessary the postponement of a visit by 13-year-old Danny Williams, orphan from Jackson, Miss., who was flown here after winning an essay contest among youngsters in two Jackson orphanges to name a Babe Ruth boy.

National Loop May Set New All-Time Home Run Record

By The Associated Press

Should the suddenly home run-conscious National league continue anywhere near its present pace, Ford Frick's loop will easily set a major league record for four-baggers in a single season.

Not since the early thirties has the senior circuit been so homer happy. In 41 games to date, National league players have walloped 69 for the distance, a far better average than their record-breaking season of 1930 when 892 homers were hit. At this rate, the old league should top a thousand when the campaign shuts its doors Sept. 28.

In sharp contrast, the American league, for years regarded as the haven for heavy hitters, owns only 39 round trippers in as many games. Its best home run output was in 1940 when 883 were hammered.

With such a dearth of home runs in the American league, naturally the pitchers have had a holiday. Ten hurlers have held their opponents scoreless in the junior circuit with Cleveland's Bobby Feller and New York's Allie Reynolds boasting two shutouts apiece. National league pitchers, on the other hand, have twirled only five games in which their opponents have failed to cross the plate.

Pleasant Hurlers Combine To Turn In No-Hit Game

Pleasant's pitchers Ron Gorby and Don Dutt combined to toss a no-hitter yesterday afternoon as the Townshippers, making their second start of the season, got a 6 to 1 victory over Marseilles at Marseilles.

Gorby started and blanked the Wyandot county nine for three innings but was cheated out of a perfect game when W. Snavely walked, stole second, and came home after Swavel's long fly to left was dropped by Milan Gorby.

Dutt went in in the fifth and handcuffed Marseilles batters for the next three innings.

Pleasant iced the game in the opening frame as R. Gorby singled and stole second, being brought in by a double by Mayers. M. Gorby clouted a one-bagger to send Mayers home and scored on a stolen base and a hit by Hall.

The Townshippers then picked up runs in the second, third and sixth frames.

The game was the first for Marseilles. Pitcher Bower outdid all hurlers in strikeouts as 15 Pleasant men batted the breeze.

R. Gorby fanned six and Dutt whiffed four.

MANSFIELD DUMPS HARDING NINE 7-3

Flockencier Limits Locals to Four Hits.

Running into a rugged outfit, Harding's baseball team was unsuccessful in its bid for a fourth straight win yesterday as they bowed to Mansfield 7 to 3. The game was played locally.

Mansfield started things off in the second inning, picking up two runs and made their lead look more formidable in the third as Swank singled, went to second on a fielders choice, and was brought home by J. Miller's triple. Miller went home on a passed ball.

With a four run deficit to overcome, the Prexies rallied slightly in their half of the inning, Mathias scoring from first on a hit by Kneisley and Kneisley going in from first after Mansfield centerfielder Meeting errored a ball hit by Thomas.

Mansfield built up the margin in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings. Harding getting one in the seventh.

Flockencier did mound duty for the victors and was nicked for only four hits while Mansfield batters got seven hits off Owens, the Harding starter and three off Smeltzer, who took over with two away in the sixth.

The Harding opponent here Friday afternoon will be Ashland. A game with Galion may also be sandwiched in this week. The schools have been scheduled to meet twice but on each occasion the game was rained out.

"Hittingest Pitcher" Title Passes To Dizzy Trout As Detroit Blanks Tribe

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 29—The title of the American league's "hittingest pitcher" appeared to have passed today from aging Charley (Red) Ruffing to Paul (Dizzy) Trout, husky Detroit right-hander who believes in winning his own ball games.

Teeing off on another red-head by the name of Charley—Cleveland's Red Embree—Trout clinched his first victory of the year yesterday with a third-inning homer which cleared Tribe President Bill Veeck's new fence and settled in the left field stands of Lakefront stadium.

"I told the boys I'd hit one," Diz chuckled after his second homer in three games soared far over the new stadium strip known as the "Happy Hunting Grounds" for Cleveland Indians hitters. Trout also rapped a single to drive in another marker during Detroit's two-run rally in the eighth.

With his 3-0 shutout victory, the pride of Sandcut, Ind., nearly duplicated his performance of April, 1946, when he also blasted a homer off Embree and went on to whitewash the Indians 4-0. The husky, six foot, three-inch hurler rapped three circuit clouts last season.

A Tribe scoring threat was snuffed out in the fourth when Dale Mitchell and Manager Lou Boudreau cracked singles, but Trout picked Mitchell off third and got Pat Seerey on a forceout to end the frame.

Don Black, reformed "bad boy" who has won two straight and shut out the Chicago White Sox in his last outing, opposes Phil Marchildon of the Philadelphia Athletics today in the opener of a two-game series.

Trucks Faces Cleveland $32,500 Damages Suit

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 29—Virgil (Fire) Trucks, speedy rignthander of the Detroit Tigers, today faced two opponents—the Boston Red Sox and a suit for $32,500 damages.

Trucks was named as defendant in the petition filed in Cuyahoga county common pleas court yesterday by Charles F. Heidler of Cleveland Heights, assitant manager of the Statler hotel here. Heidler charged in the suit that he was kicked and beaten by Trucks in the hotel's corridor last Sept. 20.

At Detroit, Tigers' new general manager Billy Evans said he had never heard of the reported incident and other officials of the American league club declined comment.

Reported to have remained at Detroit during the two-game Detroit-Cleveland series which ended yesterday, Trucks was unavailable for comment on the court action.

7 1/4 Pound Bass Caught By Marionite at Quarry

M. R. Tillis of 955 Henry street landed a 7¼-pound largemouth bass at the Owens quarry last Saturday. It was caught on artificial bait.

A short time later Howard Hager of 201 Forest street pulled a 5½ pound largemouth from the quarry.

The Tillis fish will be entered in a national contest sponsored by a sporting magazine.

Ceremonies To Be Brief For Opening Game

Mayor Dowler, Safety Director Uncapher Slated as Starting Battery.

After short services, the Marion Cubs will take the field against Lima's Terriers tonight in the first locally staged game of the 1947 Ohio-State league season.

Club officials say that pre-game ceremonies will be held to a minimum so that they won't hold up the start of the ball game.

According to estimates the opening night attendance may even surpass last year's record 2,500 turnout. Pre-season interest has been high and club president W. Dexter Hazen says that the club is hoping for a crowd in excess of 3,000. He stated that the park would be capable of handling that much of a showing.

Mayor Dowler Pitching

Pre-game activities call for Mayor H. L. Dowler to make the first pitch with City Safety Service Director Ed Uncapher acting as catcher. Following this managers Nelson Burbrink (Marion) and Lefty Setlemire (Lima) will introduce the members of their squads.

A color guard from the local post of American Legion will participate in the flag raising and game time is 8 p. m.

The last two players dropped from the Cub roster, thus cutting the team to 20 members, were Bob Diedrick of Cleveland and Alex Kolbicka of Ashley, Pa.

Forbes On First

Diedrick was Marion's first baseman last season and part of 1945. A smooth fielder he was weak at the plate and so Jim Forbes, a fielder who apparently holds an edge in the hitting department, was given the nod over him.

Players now with the team are Nelson Burbrink and Bruce Adams, catchers; John Edington, Bill Rosin, Johnny Tate, James Regula, Frank Smith, Winston Brendell, Ed Witowski and Ray Alman, pitchers; Jim Forbes, first base; Aaron Gray and Roy Hollingshead, second base; Gene Bobzean and Vita Tutera, shortstop; Bob Meyers, third base; Mel Wiebel, Hill Beavens, John Scavo, and Melvin Nelson, outfielders.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 29—Larry Doyle, John McGraw's celebrated second baseman who once summarized all baseball aspirations in the words "it's great to be young and a giant," has signed as coach of the Saranac Lake Majestics in a small northern New York league. . . . Returning to baseball after some 20 years, Larry agreed to take on the job at a salary even lower than his big league pay—$1 a year. . . . John de Moisey, one of Happy Chandler's assistants and a former U. of Kentucky basketball star, reports his alma mammy is coming up with a good football team, too, this year.

He's the Berras

Larry "Yogi" Berra, tabbed by the Yanks this spring as the best bad-ball hitter they ever saw, played for the New London, Conn., sub base team in the New England service league during the war. . . . In a game against Quonset, Yogi was at bat and Gus Niarhos, who also belongs to the Yanks, was catching. . . . Gus signalled for a pitch-out in an effort to catch a runner off second base and Berra slammed the pitch for a double. . . . Niarhos turned to Umpire John Cawley and remarked: "Gosh, Ump, that was a pitch-out." . . . Replied Cawley: "I know, but you didn't tell Yogi."

Sports Before Your Eyes

Trainer Willie Molter, who had On Trust flown from California to Kentucky for the Derby, loaded up the plane with enough California hay, oats and water to last through the horse's stay at Churchill Downs. . . . Nine members of the Chicago Bears are acting as special "T" formation tutors at various colleges during spring practice. It's a nice way to pick up a few extra bucks.

He and his wife are redecorating their newly-acquired home in Encino, Calif., doing all of the interior painting themselves. They hope to finish before Bill begins work on his new picture, "Jeopardy," at Universal in which he will co-star with Ella Raines and Vincent Price.

CRIME STOPPERS

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

BEFORE my father had finished speaking, Dicky was on his way to the second bathroom of our living quarters, the whole length of the suite from the one where Mary, in Katharine's care, was lying in her drugged slumber.

In less than a minute he was back again, with no sign of a weapon on him, but I knew that he was wearing his revolver in the fashion which I had deduced Jack was using. And then he, Jack and Philip Veritzen went out of the room on the Chief's bizarre errand, the bringing of Olga's royal signet ring to him for safe keeping.

Left Alone

My father looked at me intently when the outer door had closed behind the three men and we were left alone together.

"You must be wondering," he said, "why I am bringing Philip back here, when Jack and Dicky could bring the ring without him."

"'Mine not reason why,'" I quoted, smiling at him.

"You may have to 'do,' but you won't have to 'die,'" he returned with an answering smile. "But I have a Machiavellian purpose in bringing him back here."

I came to attention quickly, for his tone was significant of the "wheels within wheels" which he so ably manipulates when necessity arrives.

"Olina is bringing Faith back to this apartment, is she not?" he queried.

"Yes, she is," I answered, "She should be here within the next ten minutes."

Won't Wait Long

"Good!" he commented. "Then Philip will not have to wait long."

He put his fingertips together as if he were marshalling his words into line, and, explained.

"There are certain involuntary reactions of Olina's to this attempt to get hold of the treasure hidden deep in the rocks below the castle of her ancestors, which I wish to see. There is a possibility that those reactions might wound her mother deeply. Therefore I prefer that she shall learn of the plan here, instead of in the apartment which is her home."

I caught my breath at the sudden vivid recollection of Olina's selfish, passionate tirade about the fabulous emeralds, the only jewels salvaged in the flight of Olina and her mother from the cataclysm in their native land. Olga had felt that the jewels were not personally hers, but that they, or their value, should be held for the people of Transvania. But Olina had declared that the jewels were to have been hers eventually, and she did not want them sold.

I never shall forget the scathing rebuke which her mother gave her. Then Philip Veritzen, who had loved Olga from her girlhood, solved the problem by buying the emeralds at their full value, and then putting them away in his safety deposit vault.

A Wedding Present

Olga had devoted the money to the welfare of her erstwhile subjects, and Philip had given the emeralds to her as a wedding present, at their marriage with the understanding that eventually they would belong to Olina.

But now there were other jewels involved, and other treasures. The reactions of Olga and Philip had been most altruistic. What would Olina's be?

"You understand, my dearest?" My father's question brought me out of my swift mental "flashback."

"Oh, yes, indeed," I assured him. "I understand perfectly, and I am glad of your wisdom."

"Thank you," he said, and then we waited in silence until the knocker sounded and Philip came back into the room, escorted by Jack and Dicky.

Philip took a tooled leather box from his breast pocket, and opening it, handed it to my father. I could see the signet ring resting on the white satin lining.

"Thank Olga for me, Philip," my father said. "This shall be guarded most carefully."

Then he turned to me.

"Dearest," he said, "will you find a box to fit this leather one, and pack it very carefully? Wrap the package in heavy brown paper and seal it with tape in Philip's presence.

"I want you to tell Olga, Philip," he said, "that you saw her ring box sealed. Tell her I shall not unseal it until she gives the word. I am simply the guardian of the seal."
